

FINTOS Sample Query-Response Dataset

News Feed

How can I customize my news feed to follow specific companies and industries?

Customizing your news feed in FINTOS is easy. To follow specific companies and industries, simply go to the 'Settings' or 'Preferences' section of the app. There, you'll find an option to 'Customize News Feed.' You can search for and select the companies and industries you're interested in. Once selected, your news feed will be tailored to include articles related to your chosen preferences.

Are the articles in the news feed from reputable sources?

Yes, we take great care to include articles from reputable sources in our news feed. Our content comes from a variety of trusted media outlets and includes original articles from the FINTOS editorial department. We strive to provide you with accurate and reliable information to help you make informed investment decisions.

Can I save articles from the news feed for later reading?

Absolutely! You can save articles from the news feed for later reading. When you come across an article you want to save, simply click or tap on it to open it. Inside the article view, you'll typically find a 'Save' or 'Bookmark' option. Clicking on this option will allow you to save the article to your 'Saved Articles' or 'Bookmarks' section, making it easy to access later at your convenience.

How frequently is the news feed updated with new articles?

Our news feed is updated regularly throughout the day to provide you with the most current information. You can expect to see new articles and updates multiple times a day, ensuring that you have access to the latest investment news and insights.

Can I filter the news feed to show only recent articles?

Yes, you can filter the news feed to display only recent articles. To do this, simply access the filter or sorting options in the app's settings. There, you can choose to sort articles by date, ensuring that the most recent articles are at the top of your feed.

Here is how:

Go to your News Feed section.

Look for the 'Filter' or 'Sort' option, usually located at the top or bottom of the feed. Select 'Recent' or a similar option from the drop-down menu. This will display the newest articles at the top of your feed, allowing you to stay up-to-date with the latest news.

What kind of industries can I follow in the news feed?

You can follow a wide range of industries in our news feed, including but not limited to technology, healthcare, finance, energy, and more. We aim to provide coverage of industries that are of interest to our users, so you can stay informed about the sectors that matter most to you.

Is there a limit to the number of companies or industries I can follow in my customized news feed?

There is no strict limit to the number of companies or industries you can follow in your customized news feed. You have the flexibility to follow as many as you'd like, allowing you to create a personalized news feed tailored to your investment interests.

Are there any sorting options available for the news feed articles, like by date or relevance?

Yes, we offer sorting options for the news feed articles. You can sort articles by various criteria, including by date, relevance, and popularity. This helps you find articles that are most relevant to your preferences and current market conditions.

Do you offer a feature to hide or filter out articles from specific sources in the news feed?

Yes, we understand that some users may have preferences regarding news sources. You can typically customize your news feed by excluding articles from specific sources. In the 'Settings' or 'Preferences' section, look for 'Source Preferences' or 'Filter Sources,' and you can choose which sources you'd like to hide from your news feed.

Can I set up notifications for breaking news or important articles in the news feed?

Certainly! We offer a notification feature that allows you to receive alerts for breaking news and important articles. You can customize your notification preferences in the app settings to stay informed about the latest developments in real-time.

Is the news feed available in multiple languages for international users?

Yes, we understand the importance of serving our international users. Our news feed is available in multiple languages to accommodate a diverse audience, ensuring that you can access investment news and insights in your preferred language.

Are there any options to save articles offline for reading when I do not have an internet connection?

While our app primarily requires an internet connection for real-time updates, you can save articles for offline reading in some cases. Look for the 'Save Offline' or 'Download' option within articles, which allows you to access them even when offline.

Is there a search function within the news feed to find specific articles or topics quickly?

Certainly! You can use the search function within the news feed to find specific articles or topics quickly. This feature allows you to enter keywords or phrases related to your interests and retrieve relevant articles from our extensive database.

How do I access the original articles from the FINTOS editorial department in the news feed?

To access original articles from the FINTOS editorial department, you can look for articles labelled as 'FINTOS Original' or similar. These articles are authored by our in-house experts and provide unique insights into the investment world.

Can I receive personalized recommendations for articles based on my investment interests in the news feed?

Yes, we offer personalized article recommendations based on your investment interests and behaviour within the app. Our recommendation engine tailors your news feed to provide you with articles that align with your preferences and investment goals.

WatchlistHow do I create a watch list for stocks?

Creating a watch list in the FINTOS app is straightforward. Follow these steps to set up your personalized watch list for stocks:

Login to Your Account: Make sure you're logged into your FINTOS account. If you don't have an account, you can easily sign up for one.

Access the Watch List Section: Once you're logged in, navigate to the "Watch List" section within the app. This section is typically located in the main menu or dashboard.

Add Stocks: In the Watch List section, you'll find an option to "Add Stocks" or "Create Watch List." Click on it.

Search for Stocks: You can now search for and select the stocks you want to add to your watch list. You can search by the stock's symbol, company name, or other relevant criteria.

Customize Your List: After adding stocks to your watch list, you can customize it further by rearranging the order, adding notes, or setting preferences for how you want to view the data.

Save Your Watch List: Don't forget to save your watch list once you've added the desired stocks. This ensures that the app will track and display the data you're interested in.

Your watch list is now set up! You can easily access it to monitor the performance of the stocks you have added and stay informed about price changes and other relevant market data.

Can I set up alerts for price changes on my watch list?

Yes, you can set up price change alerts for the stocks on your watch list. Here's how to do it:

Access the Watch List: Start by going to the Watch List section in the FINTOS app.

Select a Stock: Choose the specific stock for which you want to set up an alert. You can usually click on the stock's name or symbol to access its details.

Set Up Alerts: Within the stock's details, you should find an option to set up alerts or notifications. Click on it.

Configure Alert Parameters: You can customize your alert based on various parameters such as price thresholds (e.g., when the stock reaches a certain price), percentage changes, or trading volume.

Choose Notification Method: Select how you'd like to be notified when the alert triggers. You can typically choose from options like push notifications, email alerts, or SMS alerts.

Save Your Alert: Once you've configured the alert parameters and notification method, save your alert settings. The app will now monitor the stock's performance based on your preferences.

Now, whenever the stock reaches the specified conditions you set for the alert, you will receive a notification, keeping you informed of price changes on your watch list.

What different formats are available for viewing my watch list?

FINTOS offers various formats for viewing your watch list, allowing you to customize how you monitor your stock holdings. Here are the different formats available:

List View: This is the default view for your watch list. It typically displays your stocks in a tabular format, showing key information like the stock symbol, current price, percentage change, and trading volume. It's a simple and concise way to track your stocks.

Chart View: In this format, you can view your watch list stocks as interactive charts. You can customize the time frame (e.g., daily, weekly, monthly) and add technical indicators to perform technical analysis.

Heatmap View: The heatmap format provides a visual representation of your watch list with color-coded cells. Each cell represents a stock, and the color intensity indicates its performance. Green cells represent gains, while red cells indicate losses, making it easy to identify trends at a glance.

Table View: In this format, your watch list is displayed in a more detailed table. It may include additional information such as market cap, P/E ratio, and dividend yield, allowing for a comprehensive overview of your stocks.

Customized Views: Depending on the app's features, you may have the option to create custom views for your watch list, allowing you to display the data that's most relevant to your investment strategy.

You can switch between these formats based on your preferences and how you prefer to track the performance of your stocks. Experiment with these views to find the one that suits your needs best.

Is it possible to set up multiple watch lists in the FINTOS app?

I want to organize my stocks into different categories for better tracking. Yes, you can create multiple watch lists in the FINTOS app to organize your stocks better. To do this:

Access the Watch List Section: Go to the "Watch List" section within the app.

Create a New Watch List: Look for an option like "Create New Watch List" or "Add New List." Click on it.

Name Your Watch List: Give your new watch list a name that reflects its purpose or the type of stocks you want to track.

Add Stocks to the New List: Now, you can add stocks to your newly created watch list, just as you did for your first list.

Repeat these steps to create and manage multiple watch lists based on your preferences and investment goals.

What data sources does FINTOS use to provide real-time stock prices in the watch list? How accurate are these prices?

FINTOS uses reliable data sources to provide real-time stock prices in your watch list. The accuracy of these prices is typically high, as the data is sourced from reputable financial market data providers. However, please keep in mind that stock prices can fluctuate rapidly, so there might be slight delays in updating the information.

Can I create custom alerts for specific events, such as earnings reports or dividend announcements, for the stocks in my watch list?

Yes, you can create custom alerts for specific events related to the stocks in your watch list. Here is how:

Access the Stock Details: Navigate to the specific stock's details within your watch list.

Set Up Alerts: Look for an option related to setting up alerts or notifications, usually located in the stock's details or settings.

Configure Alert Parameters: Customize your alert based on specific events, such as earnings reports or dividend announcements. You can set price thresholds, percentage changes, or other criteria.

Choose Notification Method: Select how you'd like to receive notifications when the alert conditions are met, such as push notifications, email alerts, or SMS alerts.

Save Your Custom Alert: Once configured, remember to save your alert settings. Now, you will receive notifications when your chosen events occur for the selected stock.

How does FINTOS' watch list feature compare to other investment apps in terms of user-friendliness and customization options?

FINTOS offers a user-friendly watch list feature with extensive customization options. It's important to note that the app's features and ease of use may vary from other investment apps. To get a comprehensive comparison, you may consider reading reviews or conducting a side-by-side trial of FINTOS and other platforms to determine which best suits your needs.

I have added stocks to my watch list, but I am not seeing any price updates. Is there something I need to check or configure to make it work?

If you have added stocks to your watch list but are not seeing price updates, please ensure that your internet connection is stable and that you are using the latest version of the FINTOS app. Additionally, verify that the stocks you have added are actively traded and have available real-time data. If the issue persists, please contact our customer support for further assistance.

Are the stocks I add to my watch list visible to other users of the FINTOS app, or is it completely private?

Rest assured that the stocks you add to your watch list are entirely private and not visible to other users of the FINTOS app. Your watch list data is kept confidential and secure within your account.

Can I import my existing watch list from another investment platform into the FINTOS app, or do I need to manually add all the stocks again?

Currently, the FINTOS app may not support direct importing of watch lists from other investment platforms. However, you can manually add your stocks to your FINTOS watch list by following the steps mentioned earlier.

I have visual impairments and require screen reader support. Does the FINTOS app offer accessibility features to help me use the watch list effectively?

We are committed to making FINTOS accessible to all users. Our app includes accessibility features, such as screen reader support and voice commands, to assist individuals with visual impairments in using the watch list effectively. You can enable these features in your device's settings.

What kind of customization options are available for arranging the order of stocks in my watch list? Can I sort them by performance or other criteria?

You can customize the order of stocks in your watch list by simply dragging and dropping them to your preferred positions. Additionally, you can often sort your watch list by performance, alphabetical order, or other criteria, depending on the app's features.

Does the watch list provide real-time market data for international stocks, or is it primarily focused on the Japanese market?

FINTOS provides real-time market data for international stocks, allowing you to track a wide range of global investments, not just limited to the Japanese market.

Can I access and manage my watch list on the FINTOS mobile app, and are all the same features available as on the web version?

Yes, you can access and manage your watch list on the FINTOS mobile app. All the features available on the web version, including adding and configuring stocks, setting alerts, and viewing your watch list in various formats, are also accessible through the mobile app for your convenience.

Is my watch list data stored securely within the FINTOS app? I'm concerned about the safety of my investment information.

Rest assured, your watch list data is securely stored within the FINTOS app. We prioritize the safety and confidentiality of your investment information, and our security measures are designed to protect your data from unauthorized access.

How does the FINTOS app's watch list feature compare to using a traditional paper-based watch list or spreadsheet for tracking stocks?

While traditional paper-based watch lists can be effective, the FINTOS app offers several advantages, including real-time data updates, customizable alerts, and the ability to track a wide range of stocks conveniently in one place. It also provides advanced features for in-depth analysis.

If I encounter issues while using the watch list feature, how can I reach out for customer support or technical assistance?

If you encounter any issues while using the watch list feature or have further questions, our customer support team is here to assist you. You can reach out to us via the app's support section, where you can submit inquiries or request assistance, and we'll respond promptly to address your concerns.

Research Reports

How can I access Nomura's original research reports?

You can access Nomura's original research reports in the FINTOS app through the following steps:

Login: First, ensure you are logged into your FINTOS account.

Navigation: Navigate to the "Research Reports" section within the app. You may find this in the app's main menu or within the "Premium Content" section, depending on your subscription level.

Filter and Search: Once in the "Research Reports" section, you can filter reports by category, industry, or specific companies. Use the search bar to find reports on a particular topic or company you're interested in.

Access: Click on the report you want to read. Depending on your subscription level, you may have full access to these reports or be prompted to upgrade to a premium subscription for access.

Are these reports available to free users or just premium subscribers?

Nomura's original research reports are primarily available to premium subscribers. However, some reports might be accessible to free users on a limited basis. Premium subscribers typically enjoy full access to the entire library of research reports, including the latest and archived reports.

To get the most comprehensive access to Nomura's research reports, we recommend considering a premium subscription, which offers a wealth of valuable insights and in-depth analysis.

What types of research reports does Nomura provide?

Nomura provides a wide range of research reports covering various genres to cater to the diverse needs of investors. Some of the types of research reports available include:

Individual Companies: These reports delve into specific companies, analyzing their financial performance, growth prospects, and potential risks.

Industries: Nomura offers reports that provide insights into entire industries, helping investors understand industry trends, challenges, and opportunities.

Foreign Exchange: Reports in this category focus on currency markets, providing analysis and forecasts for different currency pairs.

Economy: Nomura's economic reports analyze macroeconomic factors, such as GDP, inflation rates, and unemployment, helping investors gauge the overall economic health.

Politics: Some reports may cover political events and their potential impacts on financial markets.

Research Reports

Can you guide me on finding the research reports section within the app?

To access Nomura's original research reports in the FINTOS app, please follow these steps:

Login: Ensure that you are logged into your FINTOS account using your registered credentials.

Navigation: From the app's main menu, or within the "Premium Content" section, you'll find an option for "Research Reports." Click on this to access the reports.

Filter and Search: Inside the "Research Reports" section, you can filter reports by various criteria, such as category, industry, or specific companies. Utilize the search bar to look for reports on a particular topic or company of interest.

Access: Click on the report you wish to read. Depending on your subscription level, you may either have full access to the report or be prompted to upgrade to a premium subscription for access.

As a free user, can I access a limited number of research reports?

Nomura's original research reports are primarily available to premium subscribers. However, as a free user, you may have limited access to a selection of reports, often as a preview or as part of a trial period. For full access to the entire library of research reports, including the latest and archived reports, we recommend considering a premium subscription. Premium subscribers enjoy comprehensive access to these valuable insights and in-depth analyses.

Are there reports that focus on emerging markets or specific regions?

Nomura provides a diverse range of research reports, catering to various aspects of the financial world. These include:

Individual Companies: These reports offer detailed analyses of specific companies, covering their financial performance, growth prospects, and potential risks.

Industries: Nomura's industry-specific reports provide insights into entire sectors, helping investors grasp industry trends, challenges, and opportunities.

Foreign Exchange: Reports in this category focus on currency markets, offering analysis and forecasts for different currency pairs.

Economy: Nomura's economic reports analyze macroeconomic factors, such as GDP, inflation rates, and unemployment, aiding investors in understanding the overall economic health.

Politics: Some reports may delve into political events and their potential impacts on financial markets.

Please note that the availability of specific report types may vary, but these categories give you a glimpse of the breadth of research insights accessible through Nomura's reports in the FINTOS app.

Are there any thematic categories for research reports, such as sustainability or technology trends?

Yes, you can filter research reports by category within the FINTOS app to narrow down your search. The app offers categories such as "Individual Companies," "Industries," "Foreign Exchange," "Economy," and more. You can utilize these filters to find reports on specific topics or areas of interest.

The frequency of new report additions may vary, but we regularly update the app with the latest research, ensuring you can stay informed about current market trends and developments. To remain updated, consider setting up notifications or checking the app periodically.

What sets Nomura's research reports apart from other sources?

Nomura is known for its commitment to providing accurate and reliable research insights. Our analysts are experts in their respective fields, backed by years of experience and a deep understanding of financial markets. We follow rigorous research methodologies to maintain the highest standards of quality and objectivity in our reports.

Our reports are highly regarded in the industry for their comprehensive analysis, and we strive to provide you with the information needed to make well-informed investment decisions.

Is it possible to download research reports for offline reading?

Yes, you can download research reports for offline reading in the FINTOS app. To do this, follow these steps:

Locate the research report you wish to download.

Click on the report to open it.

Look for a download icon or option, usually represented by a downward arrow or similar symbol. Click on this to initiate the download.

Regarding sharing, you can typically share specific research reports with colleagues or friends via the app's sharing feature. Look for the share icon within the report or report details page, and follow the prompts to share the report through various channels, such as email or messaging apps.

Can I access research reports on the FINTOS website as well, or is it exclusively within the app?

Research reports in the FINTOS app are generally available to users regardless of their location. However, the extent of accessibility may differ based on your subscription tier. Premium subscribers typically enjoy full access to all reports, while free users may have limited access, often as previews or during trial periods.

You can access research reports exclusively within the FINTOS app, but please note that availability may vary based on your subscription level.

Are archived reports available to all users, or are they limited to premium subscribers?

Yes, Nomura maintains an archive of older research reports. The availability of archived reports typically extends back several years, allowing you to access historical reports for reference and research purposes.

Archived reports are generally available to premium subscribers who can access the entire library of both current and historical reports.

To access archived reports:

Within the "Research Reports" section, look for options to access archived reports or older publications.

You may find filters or search options to narrow down your search for historical reports.

Click on the report you wish to access, and, if you are a premium subscriber, you should be able to view it.

Video Presentations & Seminars

How can I access the video presentations and seminars?

You can access the video presentations and online seminars in the FINTOS app by following these steps:

Log in to your FINTOS account.

Navigate to the "Video Presentations" or "Seminars" section, usually found in the app's main menu or under the "Education" tab.

Browse through the available content, which is categorized based on topics and themes.

Click on the video or seminar you're interested in to start watching or participating.

Are there specific topics covered in these resources?

Yes, the video presentations and online seminars in FINTOS cover a wide range of topics related to investing and the financial markets. Some common topics include:

Investment strategies and techniques.

Market analysis and trends.

Risk management and portfolio diversification.

Industry-specific insights.

Economic outlook and impact on investments.

Interviews with financial experts and analysts.

You can explore the available content to find seminars and presentations that align with your specific interests and investment goals.

Can I interact with the presenters during online seminars?

Yes, many of our online seminars allow for interaction with presenters and other participants. Interaction options may include:

Live chat: You can often ask questions and engage in discussions through a live chat feature during the seminar.

Q&A sessions: Some seminars have dedicated Q&A segments where you can submit questions for the presenter to answer.

Polls and surveys: Presenters may conduct polls or surveys to gather insights and opinions from the audience.

Keep an eye out for seminars that mention interactive features in their descriptions, and make sure to participate actively to get the most out of the experience. If you have questions during a seminar, do not hesitate to ask, as it can enhance your learning and understanding of the topic.

I am interested in online seminars. How do I find a schedule of upcoming seminars in the app?

To find a schedule of upcoming online seminars in the FINTOS app, follow these steps:

Log in to your FINTOS account.

Go to the "Education" or "Learning" section in the app.

Look for the "Online Seminar Schedule" or a similar option.

You will find a list of upcoming seminars with their dates, times, and topics.

Click on a seminar to view more details and, if available, register for the event.

Do I need to be a premium subscriber to access video presentations and online seminars, or are they available to free users as well?

Video presentations and some online seminars are available to both free users and premium subscribers. However, premium subscribers may have access to additional premium content and benefits. You can enjoy a selection of free educational resources without a premium subscription.

Are there any prerequisites or recommended knowledge levels for attendees of the online seminars?

Most online seminars in the app are designed to cater to a broad range of audiences, including beginners and experienced investors. However, some advanced seminars may assume a certain level of prior knowledge. Check the seminar descriptions for any recommended prerequisites or intended audience levels.

Are the video presentations and seminars available for offline viewing, or can I only watch them when I'm connected to the internet?

Currently, video presentations and seminars are primarily available for online streaming. You will need an internet connection to access and view this content within the app. Offline viewing options may be considered in future updates.

Are the seminars conducted in real-time, or can I watch them on-demand at a time that suits me?

FINTOS offers both real-time live seminars and on-demand seminars. Live seminars occur at scheduled times, allowing for real-time interaction. On-demand seminars can be watched at your convenience, and you can access them whenever you like.

What are some recent topics that have been covered in the online seminars?

Recent topics covered in online seminars include "Portfolio Diversification Strategies," "Understanding Technical Analysis," "Investing in Emerging Markets," and "Sustainable Investing." You can explore the app's seminar listings for a full catalog of topics.

Is there a way to receive notifications or reminders about upcoming seminars that match my interests or preferences?

Yes, you can set up notifications for upcoming seminars of interest. Simply go to your account settings and enable seminar notifications. You can also filter and subscribe to specific seminar categories to receive relevant updates.

Is there a limit to the number of online seminars or video presentations I can access as a premium subscriber?

As a premium subscriber, you generally have access to a wide range of online seminars and video presentations. There's no set limit, and you can explore and access these resources based on your interests and learning objectives.

Are the video presentations and seminars available in multiple languages, or is the content primarily in one language?

Currently, the content in the FINTOS app is primarily available in one language, but we are actively working on expanding language options to cater to a more diverse audience in the future.

